Making pancakes was heaps of fun. I really enjoyed our pancake activities as well. Joseph Mc.

Pancake Day was really good fun. In fact it was heaps of fun. The activities I enjoyed the most were eating my pancake, learning about circumference and measuring the diameter of my pancake. Taylor

On Shrove Tuesday we made pancakes. I liked measuring the circumference of my pancake with a friend. I enjoyed the great pancake activities we did. A special thank you to the Mums who assisted us. Victor

On Tuesday, we made yummy pancakes with our classmates. I liked writing pancake stories and doing pancake activities. Nasser

On Shrove Tuesday I met Mrs Phillips' daughter, Catherine. I enjoyed stirring the mixture and loved eating my pancake. My pancake had maple syrup on top. Billy

I liked our Shrove Tuesday celebration because we had the opportunity to make yummy pancakes. A few days later we wrote our own pancake stories for other children to read in future years. My story was about a giant pancake that was trying to destroy the city. He was eaten before he could cause too much damage. Matthew Shrove Tuesday was a fantastic, fun day with all the special activities in our classroom. We had a whole list of pancake challenges that we could choose from. My favourite challenge was graphing classmates' favourite pancake toppings in Excel. Nick U.

I had never made pancakes before and I wasn't too keen to cook them at first. Mrs Donelan helped me to make my very first pancake. In Egypt we didn't ever cook in our classroom. Learning in Australia is very different. Abram

This year I really enjoyed making pancakes on Shrove Tuesday. I poured maple syrup over my pancake. It was delicious! Chhara
