

Cows Black and white Eating sleeping Mooing day and night Steak ~ Aidan Fact After three weeks the baby mice are forced out of the nest by their mother ~ Grace	Story On Saturday I went to Jeremy's birthday party. We played in the playground and we played some games and sang some songs. Jeremy's birthday party was at McDonalds. Ethan was playing chasy with me. The cake was big. Then we went home. Jeremy gave a bag to me. ~ Nicholas	Guinea pigs Orange and black Eating and hopping Getting very fat Pets Rabbit Black and white Gnawing and sleeping Eating carrots and hay Pet ~ Teri

The American Black Bear The American Black Bear breeds in June and July. That means they breed in summer. When the babies are 10 they leave their mother and live by themselves. They are found in North America, Canada and South Mexico. They like to stay in forests but come out to hunt for food. Although Black Bears really are black, others are brown, rusty red, grey blue or creamy white. ~ Taylor	Look At Me Look at me I am in a big banana tree Look at me I am a funny monkey Look at me I am holding a flea ~ Alexander Once I had a frog And then the next day he was lost We looked everywhere Then I whistled Then he came back ~ Jack
Harp Seals A baby seal is called a pup. The mother feeds the baby for 12 days and then leaves the baby alone and goes and gets food and then comes back to feed the baby. Its fur looks like snow so it is easily camouflaged. ~ Eilish		Mice Harvest Mouse It is an expert climber. This tiny mouse uses its tail to climb among grass stems. It lives in a tennis ball sized nest. Dormouse The dormouse eats mainly trees, flowers, berries and nuts. ~ Karis	